

Charles E. King is a certified law of attraction speaker, trainer, consultant and coach in the self empowerment field. "Understanding Your Positive Energies, How To Use it in Your Job Searches", "A Road Map To Your Destination", "Be There Now Series" the effect of stress on your job search results, workforce development, and motivation, are part of his topics. He is a Certified Private Security Officer Instructor approved by the Department of Criminal Justice Services, Richmond Virginia. He has attended the prestigious FBI National Academy training, and more. He has presented before representatives of more than 350 workforce Developmental Professionals at their annual conference in Virginia Beach.

Mr. King blends humor and wisdom as he addresses groups from a cross section of the working world, from the rank-and-file, to supervisors and managers, to Chief Executive Officers. They all have their stories, told slightly differently. But they all have one thing in common; they all want to reach their goals. This is where CoachKing comes in. CoachKing likes to work with small groups of 15-30 people who wish to discover that there is "a road map to your destination" (tm) which suites their particular style.

Mr. King was the HR Manager for one of New York's leading private security firms, called the Primary Security Services, located in Queens New York. His service lasted for 10 years before he moved down to Virginia to be with his family. It was a heart wrenching decision to make. When he left the company he left a computerized personnel scheduling system, which resulted into reduction in double booking and lost man hours due to customer dissatisfaction. His early technology capability enable remote training possible for continual capacity development of the company's personnel.
